

LINGUISTICS

Department of English and Linguistics (<https://cas.umw.edu/elc/>)

The minor program in linguistics is designed to suit those students with strong interest in pursuing a diversified and well-focused course of study in linguistics as a science, a social science, and a member of the humanities. Courses in linguistics offer the student an understanding of the fundamental structure and processes of language, and a focus on how we use language in different forms of communication from infant babbling to conversation and literature. Linguistics courses are a valuable complement to any major that deals with language, literature, the human mind and cognition, sociology, or education.

Minor Requirements

The minor program in linguistics is designed to suit those students with strong interest in pursuing a diversified and well-focused course of study in linguistics as a science, a social science, and a member of the humanities.

Code	Title	Credits
LING 101B	Introduction to Linguistics	3
LING 470	Seminar in Linguistics	3
Select any four of the following:		12
LING 205	Writing Systems of the World
LING 251	Issues in Linguistics
LING 302	Introduction to Sociolinguistics and Anthropological Linguistics
LING 307	Language and Gender
LING 308	Language and Race
LING 309	Introduction to Phonology
LING 310	History of the English Language
LING 311	Introduction to Morphology
LING 375	Special Studies
LING 491	Individual Study in Linguistics
LING 492	Individual Study in Linguistics
LING 499	Internship
Alternates from language-related disciplines as approved by the ENLI linguistics advisor and ENLI chair
Total Credits		18

Linguistics Program

Associate Professors

Paul D. Fallon

Janie Lee